

VINTAGE NUT PLATES

Standard MS “Crimped Nut” Information

These are the most common standard rivet pattern nut plates made today which are elliptical at the end of the threads in order to make them "locking". They come in both steel and stainless steel types. Some are cad plated, while others are lubricated. The high temp stainless steel ones are silver plated or lubricated.

**Disclaimer: All items sold are in original new surplus condition. This is a collection from surplus aircraft parts inventories gathered over 45 years. Items sold are without certs or traceability and there is no warranty or guarantee expressed or implied.